Does sheer volume of homework exist because we haven't time in-school? Is curriculum overloaded? #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:36 | computing_teach

@LITTLELADYJAYNE Me neither Jayne. Too many negative side-effects. Becomes necessary in KS4 and AS level though. #niedchat

Would we ask most adults to work from 5pm to 8pm most evenings - repeating stuff they did during day? #niedchat

All depends on what the homework is about. It needs to be relevant, within the pupil's ability level and, if possible FUN! #Niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:37 | seomraranga

@computing_teach At what level? I'm quiet happy to work at the natural pace of learning in KS3. #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:37 | dmchugh675

#niedchat Hi I'm Peadar. Irish, Science and P.E. teacher. Was never a fan of homework when I was at school.

09-Jan-13 20:41 | PeadarHynes

@seomraranga do all pupils have internet access at home Damien? some of mine don't #Niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:41 | ffarry1

#niedchat not all kids have support at home to complete tasks so then tasks set must be easy or creative

09-Jan-13 20:42 | LITTLELADYJAYNE

@dmchugh675 Found in ks3 maths, lots of hw needed to cover course. In ICT, plenty just love Scratch and don't need to be asked #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:42 | computing_teach

@ffarry1 @seomraranga Many of ours still don't. We have homework clubs set up after school in ICT suites to cover this. Not ideal. #niedchat

RT @LITTLELADYJAYNE: #niedchat not all kids have support at home to complete tasks so then tasks set must be easy or creative

#niedchat homework is still very relevant and useful although we will need to update our views, things like Edmodo etc can greatly help

09-Jan-13 20:43 | keenan_robbie

@computing_teach Then the course needs changed. The minimum requirement doc for ks3 is one page! #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:43 | dmchugh675

@seomraranga yes, because employers choose to not allow us prep time and we're dumb enough to fall for it. #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:43 | computing_teach

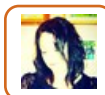

@johnmayo so did the Stasi. #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:44 | computing_teach

#niedchat I would love some new ideas for home tasks.

09-Jan-13 20:46 | PeadarHynes

@CathyabcCathy I would tend to agree. Temptation is to set a menial task which everyone can complete but then what's the point? #niedchat

#niedchat I regularly send the older students home and ask them to read a piece on the internet and tell us about it the next day.

09-Jan-13 20:48 | keenan_robbie

Effective homework should be marked promptly...do we always have time for this? #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:48 | dmchugh675

#niedchat had a teacher who gave tons of HW so seen to be "a good teacher" - so bad in classroom only way we learnt was doing HW

09-Jan-13 20:48 | johnmayo

#niedchat As a parent it's a great way of keeping up with what's going on in school. But it's also very difficult to squeeze it in every eve

09-Jan-13 20:48 | 33TD33

I don't often set homework for my college students as many work, have families & commitments. Finding time is hard #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:49 | camaxwell

When I was at Google Teacher Acad- they have a thing called "learning on the loo" -in my old school we called it doing maths HW #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:49 | johnmayo

In an ideal world homework should be differentiated for diff students however not realistic for teacher #Niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:49 | ffarry1

#niedchat We may need to change views. many think that if their child has no homework they are not learning and you're not doing your job

09-Jan-13 20:50 | keenan_robbie

RT @johnmayo: #niedchat had a teacher who gave tons of HW so seen to be "a good teacher" - so bad in classroom only way we learnt was doing HW

09-Jan-13 20:50 | dmchugh675

@jkeatings #niedchat those statistics are probably true, but I'd suggest they're worse for college students. Rarely get quality responses

09-Jan-13 20:51 | camaxwell

@computing_teach yea you have got to like something to do it at home. But it is said that 80% of learning occurs outside school #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:51 | PeadarHynes

RT @keenan_robbie: #niedchat We may need to change views. many think that if their child has no homework they r not learning #Niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:52 | IOEDU

@johnmayo That's interesting. Sometime the classroom can be there to serve HW rather than the learner. #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:52 | dmchugh675

We set easy tasks because teachers have done that for years, and because we haven't time to mark better stuff! #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:52 | computing_teach

@keenan_robbie I agree that is the general opinion of parents and stimes why as teachers we send home a task with little value #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:53 | LITTLELADYJAYNE

@dmchugh675 check books every lesson and try to lift books once a fortnight but that is prob too late as well #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:53 | PeadarHynes

Agree"@keenan_robbie: #niedchat nd 2 change views. many thk that if their child has no hw they are not learning & you're not doing your job"

09-Jan-13 20:53 | ffarry1

@dmchugh675 On the other side of the coin teachers giving lots of ineffective HW are just burning themselves out. #niedchat

09-Jan-13 20:53 | johnmayo

@keenan_robbie This really annoys me. We spend hours designing interesting and engaging class activities but are judged on HW :(#niedchat
